

Lecture 21

STAT 109: Introductory Biostatistics

Lecture 21

Rubberband analogy for confidence intervals: bulls-eye is the parameter we are interested in, a one number summary of the population. Rubberbands are the upper and lower bounds of the confidence intervals from samples of the population. The confidence level is the percentage of rubberbands shot at the target that hit the bulls-eye.

Happy Spring Break!